The multidisciplinary team at Penn State Hershey Cancer Institute diagnoses and treats head and neck cancers. Specialists from Otolaryngology - Head and Neck Surgery, Medical Oncology, Radiation Oncology and Speech Pathology, work together to provide individualized care to patients with head and neck cancers that can affect, mouth, throat, swallowing passages, nasal passages, sinuses, salivary glands and thyroid gland. Skin cancers that develop on the scalp, face or neck are also considered head and neck cancers. Funds generated from the Highmark Walk will fund important research in the field of Head and Neck cancer.
