Nursing Publications, Presentations, and Scholarly Work
January – December 2015

Publications

Retrieved from:
http://www.eatingdisorderhope.com/information/anorexia/anorexia-nervosa-highest-mortality-rate-of-any-mental-disorder-why.

Podium and Poster Presentations

Bortner, T. (2015, January). Building a simulation instructor course: Meeting the needs for program and faculty development. Podium presentation at the International Meeting for Simulation in Healthcare, New Orleans, LA.

Derr, J., & Enders, E. (2015, March). Will geriatric patients have increased quality and duration of sleeping with use of non-pharmacologic nursing interventions? Poster presented at the University HealthSystem Consortium and American Association of Colleges of Nursing, Nurse Residency Program Annual Meeting, Scottsdale, AZ.

Dillon, J., Snyder, G., & George, J. (2015, March). Building an appetite for health: An academic medical center’s campus farmer’s market and outreach initiatives. Poster presented at the Association for Community Health Improvement Conference, Dallas, TX.

for later colic symptoms. Poster presented at Digestive Digest Week, Washington, D.C.

Gordon, J. (2015, April). Total artificial heart: The clinical nurse specialist role from ICU to home. Podium presentation at the Cleveland Clinic Nursing Research Conference, Cleveland, OH.

Hicks, S., & Reardon, D. (2015, November). Early exercise and mobilization in the Medical Intensive Care Unit. Poster presented at the Susquehanna Valley American Association of Critical-Care Nurses Cornucopia of Knowledge Conference, New Cumberland, PA.

Kanaskie, M.L. (2015, March). When more research is needed: Advancing evidence-based practice projects to research activities. Panelist at the University HealthSystem Consortium and American Association of Colleges of Nursing, Nurse Residency Program Annual Meeting, Scottsdale, AZ.
Kanaskie, M.L., & Salisbury, S. (2015, October). When “more research is needed”: Advancing EBP projects to research studies. Poster presented at the American Nurse Credentialing Center’s National Magnet Conference, Atlanta, GA.

Snyder, R., & Snyder, C. (2015, May). Preliminary research into a novel linear measurement process with application in pediatric endocrinology. Pediatric Endocrinology Nursing Society Annual Meeting, Savannah, GA.

Other Scholarly Activities, Invited Presentations, Symposia, and Panels

Cox, L. (2015, April). Prescribing intravenous fluids: More than just filling the tank. Invited presentation at the Penn State University Annual Pharmacology Program, Hershey, PA.

Fussner, J., & Morrison, K. (2015, May). Preparing your hospital for comprehensive stroke center certification. Invited presentation at the American Heart Association's Stroke Coordinator Boot Camp, Cincinnati, OH.

Reviewer Activities

Funded Research and Scholarly Projects

Doheny, K., & Palmer, C. (2015, April). Received Invention Incentive Award from Penn State Research Foundation for “A Predictor of Necrotizing Enterocolitis in Neonates”.

Messner, E. (2014-15). A rapid process improvement initiative involving the Roland Responder 5 call bell system. Grant project ($4000) sponsored by the Junior Faculty Development Program, Hershey, PA.
